

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Mariposa brought $70,000 in gold for the local banks.

E. R. Biven, of Maui, is registered at the Arlington Hotel.

The Sydney Morning Herald has reduced its price to one penny.

W. O. Aiken is the deputy assessor and collector for Makawao, Maui.

Mr. W. R. Castle and his family have returned from a trip to the volcano.

The Duke of New Castle is in town again. He returned from Kauai Sunday.

Two polariscopes, with attachments complete, are for sale. Apply to Benson, Smith & Co.

Dr. F. Reniecke, the new consul-general to Samoa from Germany, was a passenger on the Mariposa.

Miss Carter, Dr. Campbell, wife and children are booked to leave on the Miowera, due here on August 1st.

Mr. James W. Robertson, ex-chamberlain, has charge of the unloading of the cargo of the British bark Ladstock.

J. H. Waipulani, member from Kona, Hawaii, to the legislature of 1892-3, has been appointed district magistrate for Kau.

Dr. R. I. Moore, the dentist, will go to Hilo today on a professional visit. He will return on or about the 15th August next.

Mr. D. Chidlon, a journalist representing several Australian papers, was a passenger by the Monowai for the World's Fair.

The Metropolitan Meat Company received another consignment of choice New Zealand mutton on the Monowai. The meat is in excellent condition.

At a meeting of the executive council held Wednesday morning Mr. T. F. Lansing was appointed as a member of the board of health in place of Mr. J. O. Carter, resigned.

The bankruptcy proceedings commenced by Hopp & Co. against Samuel Parker did not come up in the circuit court on Saturday. The matter was postponed until Wednesday.

The Daily Bulletin has reduced its reading matter to six columns. The prophecy lately uttered by that journal concerning the Hawaiian Star, seems to be coming home to roost.

The Rev. J. B. Wakefield, rector of Trinity church, San Jose, arrived on the Mariposa and will spend a month in the islands. The reverend gentleman is accompanied by his daughter.

Sister Albertina of St. Andrew's Priory left Friday on the Mikahala to spend a month in the district of Kau, a visit to the volcano to be included. While in Kau she will be the guest of Judge and Mrs. J. H. S. Martin of that district.

The following item is taken from an Auckland paper: "The Austrian warship Saida arrived at Sydney from Melbourne on the 1st instant, and after a short stay at that port comes on to New Zealand, and proceeding then to Tahiti, Honolulu, Japan and China."

Stamps are Going Up.

The Hawaiian News Company has been doing a rushing business lately in the stamp line. In a show window cards of Hawaiian stamps are exhibited which attract a great deal of attention from passersby. As an example of the rapid rise in the value of stamps, it may be mentioned that a one cent blue stamp which was very common but a few weeks ago, is now sold for ten cents.

The Subsidy at Present.

A London dispatch dated July 11th, says: "Mr. Arnold Morley, postmaster-general, admits that the Pacific route is the best, both for cable and mails, but regrets that the inelastic nature of the finances precludes a subsidy being granted to Messrs. Huddart and Parker's steamers at present."

The dispatch refers to the new line of which Theo. H. Davies & Co. are the agents.

Consul Wilder Recognized.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The President has recognized Charles T. Wilder as consul-general of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands for the states of California, Oregon, Nevada and Washington.

MAUI NEWS.

An Evening In "Ould Ireland"

—Dance at Hamakunapoko—
—Stray Scribblings.

MAUI, July 19.—The July evening (the 26th inst.) of the Makawao literary society was simply delightful—the air soft and balmy and the moon most fascinating in its brilliancy—old Prob. was surely all smiles that night. As a consequence an unusually large gathering thronged the verandas and parlors of the Loveland residence in Hamakunapoko, and not only applauded a charming programme of events, but also enjoyed their little outing by the light of the moon.

It was an Irish evening, for with the exception of a solo and duet the chronicle of the occasion mentioned nothing but the prose, poetry and music of the "Emerald Isle." As a fitting introduction a quartette, composed of Misses Fleming and Morris, Messrs. Dickey and Lindsey, sang "The wearing of the green," though the buttonieres worn by the various gentlemen were passion vine and not the traditional shamrock.

Number two was a brilliantly-executed piano solo by Miss Douglas of Spreckelsville, which effort was endorsed. "Lend me the loan of a gridiron" was next read by C. H. Dickey with a touch of the brogue and a wee bit of a grin, which was much appreciated by his auditors.

"Young Rory O'Moore" was then commemorated in song by D. Lindsey. The fifth event was a tableau, Miss Campbell impersonating the famous and charming Widow Malone—O'hone! The solo "The foine old Irish gentleman," by Mr. Dickey, received much applause. The recitation, "Bells of Shandon," was prettily rendered by Miss Mossman. In the tableau, "The angels' whisper," Miss Gregory appeared, after the poem had been read, in which the smile of the infant in the cradle brought good fortune, the return of Dermot. Then Miss Margaret Nape sang the old favorite "Kathleen Ma-vourneen."

During a short intermission ice cream and cake were served. Following this Mrs. Laidlaw and Miss Douglas sang, most sweetly and harmoniously, "Io Vivo E T. Amo," and as an encore gave "Like the lark."

Miss Paris' recitations, "Mrs. Maloney on the Chinese Question" and "Specially Jim," which she repeated when recalled, were among the hits of the evening.

The solo, "Kerry Dance," by Miss Kate Fleming, was also appreciated. In the tableau, "The Irish Bachelor," Mr. Lindsey created much amusement.

As a finale, the quartette, Mrs. Laws, Miss Campbell, Messrs. Laws and Dickey, sang with good effect "The Last Rose of Summer."

Honolulu was well represented on this occasion, and among those from the metropolis were Mr. and Mrs. Ehlers, Mrs. T. F. Lansing, Misses Anna and Inez Berry, Agnes Alexander, Messrs. Bowen, Wichman and Ruebski being among those noted.

THE HAMAKUNAPOKO PARTY.

Dark was the night and rainy, still last evening goes into social history as one of the most gay and enjoyable events of the season. The darkness but emphasized the effect of the veranda lanterns and parlor lights of the large Gilhns house, and, though late in arrival, the forty and more guests were loath to leave, and Saturday morning was most prominent before departure was remembered. Passion vine adorned the high studded interior, and a smooth hardwood floor and excellent music from piano and violin tells the rest of the story.

Icecream and cake were eaten at 11 o'clock P.M., and sandwiches and coffee at 1 A.M. The fair ones were in the majority, but no murmur of "stupid" or "slow" was breathed, or even thought. Who were they? No, no; our friend Sir Galahad has an antipathy against names in the Maui News column.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, the host and hostess of the occasion, are to be congratulated upon the success of their first entertainment. It rained quite heavily during the evening, but home was made under skies from which the moon shone hazily.

STRAY SCRIBBLINGS.

N. Ormstead has resigned his position as manager of T. H. Davies & Co.'s Pais store, and has gone to Kauai on a short visit. Mr. Larnach is now in charge.

The funeral of Mr. McKim, a luna of Waihee plantation, took place last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. A. Barnes has accepted the position as paymaster of Spreckelsville and Mr. A. B. Scrimgeour has been caring for the Wailuku plantation books.

A concert took place in the Pais native church during Saturday evening, the 22d inst. The notice announcing the event wound up with these words, "come one come all and see the beauty."

At an inquest held in Kala during Friday, the 28th inst., a jury decided that the death of the Chinaman in question was accidental—by a fall from his horse. The body of the deceased was discovered about a week ago not far from the house of G. Forsyth. L. A. Andrews acted as coroner, and Sheriff Chillingworth, Dr. Stowe and others were present at the inquiry.

Makawao district is this season more popular than ever as a summer resort, vide: At Haleakala hall, (Miss Paris') there have been Dr. and Mrs. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Lansing, Messrs. Wichman and Ruebski, all of Honolulu. Mrs. J. N. S. Williams and Miss Mist of Honolulu are visiting Mrs. R. von Tempky. Miss Winnie Baldwin of Lahaina and Miss Agnes Alexander of Honolulu are at Haiku. Misses Annie and Inez Perry are the guests of Miss Nellie Crook. Miss Hadley is at Maunaloa seminary, Mr. and Mrs. Ehlers of Honolulu are still enjoying Kalanui.

The bark Culosa departed for the coast Wednesday morning, the 26th inst., well laden with sugar.

The new house for the use of Manager C. B. Wells of Wailuku plantation will be completed in four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Wilder leave for Chicago next week for a two or three months' outing.

Geo. Garnett, of Ewa, formerly of Pais, has a coffee plantation of 134 acres at Kaupo, Maui. The coffee grows most luxuriantly there, which locality is probably the best on Maui for the raising of the staple.

Last Sunday evening a prominent gentleman was somewhat disturbed to learn that his horse was in a large, bottle-necked cistern. The animal, tied up like a Thanksgiving turkey, was safely rescued the next morning. Pineapples are selling four for a quarter.

"Mr. Maui News" rather suspects that "Sir Galahad" is a friend of his (not however judging by the recent letter in the Bulletin), and if "his nobility" will call around "Mr. M. N." will explain his side of the question and kindly warn him against those same "old tricks" which he accuses the Maui Advertiser's correspondent of using.

Weather—Several showers during the week, but generally hot and dry. Maui, July 29, 1893.

THE QUEEN'S HOSPITAL.

List of New Members—Donation of $500 to Endow a Bed.

The undersigned, on behalf of the Queen's Hospital, takes great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt, through the Hon. H. A. Widemann, chairman of the soliciting committee, up to this date, the sum of $950 for the life membership fees of the following named gentlemen:

|-----------------|----------------|
| F. M. Hatch | Alex. Young |
| H. Waterhouse | E. S. Cunha |
| John Ewa | W. C. Peacock |
| Paul Isenberg | A. J. Campbell |
| H. F. Glade | Morris Hyman |
| J. F. Hackfeld | W. H. Cornwell |
| C. O. Berger | F. A. Hopper |
| Robt. Lewers | James A. King |
| Claus Spreckels | Geo. N. Wilcox |
| H. J. Nolte | |

F. A. Schaefer, Esq., executor of A. A. Carnot, deceased, has this day handed the treasurer a Hawaiian government 6 per cent. bond for $5000 for the purpose of endowing a bed in the Queen's Hospital which, by the terms of the will of the decedent, shall always be held at the disposition of the representative of France.

JOHN H. PATY, Treasurer.
Honolulu, July 28, 1893.

RYAN'S BRIEF LIBERTY.

He is Caught at the Cattle Pen by the Police.

George Ryan, who escaped from the reef Thursday afternoon, was captured last night about 9 o'clock at the cattle pen near the slaughter house. He telephoned for a hack and the police heard of it. Captain Parker went out to Ryan's hiding place and found him without much difficulty. Ryan was attired in a black suit of clothes and had blackened his face and hands. He made no resistance whatever when the officer placed him under arrest, but simply remarked: "I am out of luck."

Minister King Canned.

Minister King was pleasantly surprised on last Saturday by being presented with a handsome can. The stick was made by H. F. Wichman, the jeweler. It was manufactured from a piece of kauri wood. On the head, which is solid gold, the following inscription is engraved: "Presented to Captain J. A. King, Minister of the Interior, Hawaiian Islands, by appreciative friends, July 28, 1893."

Sent to Molokai.

The lepers who have been confined at the Kalihi station for some weeks were sent to Molokai last week by the steamer Hawaii. In all there were forty diseased persons, nineteen of whom were from Kalalau valley. They were brought down to the landing at the immigration depot in six wagons.

BINDT RETURNS.

HE SAW NOTHING BUT TREES AND MOUNTAIN SCENERY.

A Climb to the Cliffs of Kalalau With-out Sighting His Man.

The steamer Iwalani arrived on Sunday morning from Kauai ports, but she brought no news concerning Koolau or his whereabouts. On Saturday a story came by the steamer C. R. Bishop, to the effect that two cowboys had seen the leper in the Waimea mountains, and, according to the story, they did not have the time or inclination to interview him.

A. R. Bindt was a passenger on the Iwalani, and his tale is somewhat different. When he arrived Sunday his hair was standing as straight as a minstrel's trick wig, and his eyes had a dangerous look.

When questioned regarding his warlike appearance he unbosomed himself, and, in doing so, he gave the Advertiser a gentle roast for publishing his letter to Harry Juen. He saw the paper which contained his letter on last Thursday at Mr. Hoffard's place at Waimea. He read the effusion over several times to see if the proof-reader had omitted anything, but everything was all right on that score, so he paid his attention to the friendly introduction to the same.

He came to the conclusion that preceding lines jollied him just a little bit so he made up his mind to return to town without making any further effort to catch Koolau. The leper is still at large and he says the ADVERTISER is to blame for it.

He stated that early last week he and a companion ascended the dizzy heights until they reached the cliffs overlooking the Kalalau valley on the Waimea side. They remained there for two days without seeing anything but trees and scenery. Their ladder was a limited one, in fact all they had to eat was crackers and corned beef. Bindt says if they had had a little pie and milk it would not have been half so bad.

He abandoned his idea of starting a distillery in the valley for two reasons—first, for the reason that his friend Juen did not send the necessary apparatus, and secondly, that he was afraid that Koolau would hear of his scheme.

According to Bindt's story the publication of his letter has injured him in a business way as he intended to sell what liquor Koolau did not drink to the natives in Waimea.

MAKING PREPARATIONS.

The Hawaiian Electric Company Getting Ready for Business.

The building committee of the Hawaiian Electric Company met Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the office of Mr. C. B. Ripley, the architect, to consider the plans and specifications for the company's new building on the Esplanade.

The proposed building will be of brick, to be erected on stone foundations, and will be about 100 feet square. The engine and dynamo room will be 56 x 100 feet in size, and the boiler and coal room will occupy 44 x 100 feet, leaving yard space of 50 x 100 feet.

The plans and specifications submitted were adopted at the meeting Monday after reading and discussion, and bids will be called for at once so that work can be begun as soon as possible. According to the plans, the new structure will cost considerably over $12,000, and the company expects to have the new plant ready for business by next December. The poles for the street lines are now on the way and will arrive by sailing vessel consigned to Lewers & Cooke within a few weeks.

Choice Fruit.

Mr. A. Montana, of Manoa valley is engaged in raising pineapples, and has a very fine field, some of which are the largest and handsomest ever grown in this vicinity. He has just sent to the office of this paper one that weighs seven pounds of the Panama Queen variety, which for beauty it would be difficult to match anywhere. It is such fruit as this that will soon make our islands famous in foreign markets. Mr. Montana deserves thanks for his enterprise, which will in time find its reward.

THEY ARE AFTER HIM.

Francis Harden Has an Interview With the Police.

Francis Harden, the exile, was escorted to the police station last Thursday by Police Captain Juen, to have an interview with Deputy Marshal Brown. Harden was informed that his room was preferred to his company, and that if he did not leave this city he would have to go to jail. Previous to Harden's compulsory departure from this country, he was arrested on a charge of "duelling" at the instance of John Sheldon, the then editor of the Holomua.

The prosecution was dropped on the understanding that Harden would leave the country for good. He consented to this arrangement, and with the aid of the British consul he was put on board of a departing war vessel.

Harden promised yesterday to leave town on the steamer City of New York, due here on Monday; if he does not do so, the old charge will be brought up against him.

DEPARTMENT MATTERS.

Chief Engineer Hustace's Successor Not Appointed.

The board of fire commissioners held a regular monthly meeting Friday P.M. at the bell tower. Andrew Brown presided. The secretary read an agreement by which the China engine company agrees to keep up a volunteer company of at least thirty-five members and to allow the department the use of its apparatus. In return they are to receive $50 a month towards defraying the expenses of the company. The resignation of Chief Engineer Hustace was read and on motion of Mr. Boyd it was accepted with regret.

The secretary was instructed to have a suitable vote of thanks engrossed to be presented to the retiring chief.

The appointment of his successor was not acted upon Friday. The matter went over for two weeks in order to give aspirants an opportunity to file applications. Mr. Hustace's resignation is to take effect any time between now and the 1st of September.

A TERRIBLE DEATH.

How a Passenger on the Monowai Met His End.

While the Monowai was steaming between Sydney and Auckland, a steerage passenger named S. Solomon committed suicide by jumping overboard. The steamer was stopped and a boat was launched.

After rowing around the spot where the man was last seen for some time, the boat returned close to the ship, but was sent off in another direction where a crowd of albatrosses riding on the water suggested the presence of the body. The boat reached the spot, away flew the birds, and Solomon was picked up insensible. His ears, head and face had been picked to a sickening degree, and in this condition the unfortunate man was conveyed on board, and was handed over to the ship's doctor. All the methods of restoring the apparently drowned were used, but to no avail, as within an hour after his rescue, when there was a little life in him, the man expired.

THE FINAL GAME.

The Hawaiis Win it From the Crescents.

The last base ball game of the present season was played last Saturday between the Hawaiis and the Crescents, the former club winning by a score of eight to seven. There was a pretty fair audience present in the grand stand. Messrs. J. W. Winter and L. Singer umpired the game, which was not exciting in the least degree. The following is the score by innings:

Hawaiis.....0 5 0 3 0 0 0 0—8
Crescents.....0 0 1 2 0 4 0 0—7

Brought to Honolulu.

The sugar clerk at the Makaweli landing, Kauai, was brought to Honolulu by the steamer Pele last evening in a very critical condition. The captain and chief engineer took the sick man to the Queen's hospital.

THE HULA GIRLS.

They Give an Exhibition of High Diving.

The following account of a diving exhibition given by the Hawaiian girls now in San Francisco is taken from the Chronicle:

Nearly 800 people went over to see the hula hula girls from Honolulu do some high diving from the Alameda mole recently. The water was rough and the cold wind that swept across the bay made things none too comfortable for the spectators, and caused some of the Kanakas to wish they were back in their island home.

The ship Tacoma, which was moored at the extreme end of the wharf, was utilized for a diving platform, and it was fun to see the Kanaka girls, clad in men's bathing suits—garments they had never donned before, for at home such trifles never bother them—climbing up the rigging of the big ship and then crawling out to the end of the yard make the dive. This was a feat that only two of the girls accomplished, and it pleased the crowd more than the diving did. Big Julia tried it, but before she got fifteen feet above the deck her courage gave out and she clung to the rigging until assisted back to the deck by a couple of male attendants.

The first dive was made by one of the men, who ran aloft like a monkey, clambered out on the mizzen topsail-yard and made a splendid dive into the water, seventy-five feet below. The feat was accomplished so quickly that before the spectators fully realized what was up the man had clambered back on board the vessel. An American named Hunt, who followed, showed that he was just as good a diver as the Kanakas, and was roundly cheered as he swam back to the float.

The three women then started for the topsail yard, but Julia gave it up, and only two of them made the big dive. One of them turned over as she went down and struck the water with a smash that could be heard clear across the mole, but she did not seem to mind it and laughed gaily as she swam to the float.

Big Julia made a dive from the ship's rail and then nearly upset a boat containing three men who went to her assistance. She was finally towed to the side of the ship and hoisted on board with a watch tackle, amid cheering from the crowd both on the ship and mole.

Accident at Halawa.

While Mr. H. van Giesen, principal of the government school at Halawa, Molokai, was decorating the inside of his schoolhouse on examination day; he stepped on a loose board and fell on the benches below. One of his ribs was broken by the fall. Dr. Mouritz was summoned from Kalaupapa, fifteen miles away, and he arrived during the afternoon. Mr. van Giesen is said to be recovering slowly.

Education Held Cheaply.

The following advertisement is taken from a Colonial paper. According to it a boy must be a Greek scholar for the small sum of $2.50 a week.

WANTED—BOY, JUST LEFT school, to write shorthand, use typewriter, speak German, French, Spanish, and also have a knowledge of Greek. Salary given, 10s. per week. Apply 104, care of Press Office, Christchurch, N. Z.

News from Abroad.

Some wise man remarked that one must go away from home to get the news. The following item from a Seattle paper proves the adage: "A specimen radish from the Sandwich Islands was exhibited on West street yesterday, twenty-one inches in length." The radish referred to must have been the product of a taro patch.

Arch-Bishop of Wellington.

Among the passengers on the Monowai is Archbishop Redwood, of Wellington, New Zealand. He is the first native of that country who has attained this high ecclesiastical rank. A fellow passenger is Mr. James Coates, who is general manager of the national bank of New Zealand.

A Wedding Reception.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham for the marriage reception of their daughter, Mary Emma, and Mr. Justice Walter Francis Frenar. It will take place tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock at Woodlawn.
